

Remarks

The double patenting rejection

This rejection is provisional, and Applicants will respond with the necessary terminal disclaimers
5 should USSN 09/312,740 go to issue.

The rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2. par.

Applicants have revised their claim language to set forth that 10 the interface mak[es] the model entities, their hierarchical relationships, and the information to which the representations of the model entities provide access perceptible to a collaborator (claim 1, lines 15-18)

The amendment makes the perceptibility of the model entities a property of the interface, rather than an action performed by the collaborator, and as such, "perceptibility" is not relative. An 15 interface which provides a display of the model entities, their hierarchical relationships, and the information is an example of an interface which "makes...perceptible". The amendment to claim 1 and similar amendments to claims 3-4, 13, and 24 have consequently overcome the rejection.

Traversal of the rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(b)
